Mobile Document Shredder Launches First Chicagoland Operation

Orland Park, IL, June 11, 2007 — Toronto-based Proshred, a market leader in mobile, on-site document shredding, has teamed up with Chicago area entrepreneurs Rodney and Patti Quasny to launch the company's first-ever Illinois franchise. Based in Orland Park, Proshred Chicago South is initially targeting small- and medium-sized companies in the south and western suburbs and will selectively serve downtown Chicago.

"Our Proshred operation will provide the highest quality document security solutions to the Chicagoland business community," said Rodney Quasny. "Identity theft prevention and document security have become top priorities for every business, and we are confident that Proshred's proven 20-year history in the document shredding industry will be very well received in Illinois."

Proshred's on-site shredding and recycling services will provide the business community with a fast, secure, convenient, cost-effective and environmentally-friendly method for destroying confidential documents. Utilizing locked security consoles that are picked up from the customer's facility by bonded and uniformed drivers, all documents are then shredded in a state-of-the-art, ultra secured Proshred truck. The truck contains an internal shredding system that features a camera to record document shredding in real-time. To further guarantee transparency and security, customers watch the shredding process through an external viewfinder attached to the side of the Proshred truck.

Proshred's professional document shredding services are available to companies and industries that require timely and efficient document destruction. "With so much media attention on security breaches at universities, doctor's offices, financial institutions and corporate America at-large, companies and organizations need a document shredding partner of unquestionable integrity whom they can trust with their most sensitive documents," added Quasny.

Quasny's goal is to make Proshred the shredding service of choice. "We will focus on offering the best shredding services at competitive prices, and we will proactively listen to our customers' specific needs," Quasny explained. "Our entire Proshred team is committed to building meaningful, long-term customer relationships, and we will spare no effort to ensure that our customers' data is safe, secure and protected."

Prior to opening Proshred, Rodney Quasny owned and operated Mail Boxes, Etc. and The UPS Stores in Chicago. A south side native, Quasny built his businesses into successful neighborhood enterprises. For over 15 years, he worked to achieve the highest retail standards by providing impeccable service and acknowledging his customers on a first name basis. Launching his Proshred document shredding business combines Quasny's interest in identity theft prevention and corporate security with his genuine commitment to be of service to the Chicagoland area.
